

Eng Lim Goh, PhD

High Performance Computing and Artificial Intelligence

Within a few decades, numerical simulation by high performance computing has risen in some instances to peer experiment for validating theory; thus forming the third pillar of science. In the next decades, can inference, from machine learning, rise to be the fourth?